BRETT SLENSKY AND ANGELA PAPPAS,
ASSOCIATES OF MANKO, GOLD, KATCHER & FOX, LLP
PRESENTED ENERGY SEMINAR
TO THE PENNSYLVANIA BAR INSTITUTE

Philadelphia, PA (March 23, 2010) – On Friday, March 12, Brett Slensky and Angela Pappas, associates of Manko, Gold, Katcher & Fox, LLP (MGKF), the environmental, energy and land use law firm based in Bala Cynwyd, PA, were among the faculty that presented “Renewable Energy and Energy Efficiency: Key Financial Incentives for Businesses” to the Pennsylvania Bar Institute in Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania, which was simulcast to various locations throughout the state.

The seminar covered a myriad of federal and state financial incentives and programs, including those authorized pursuant to Pennsylvania’s Alternative Energy Investment Act of 2008 and the Federal Stimulus Act of 2009. Slensky and Pappas, the course planners, discussed practical and emerging legal issues associated with renewable energy and energy efficiency projects and how businesses can take advantage of the financial opportunities presented through state and federal governments’ investments.

Slensky focuses his practice on environmental aspects of commercial transactions, property development, regulatory compliance and renewable energy matters. He has represented a broad array of clients including individual property owners, real estate developers, municipalities, and Fortune 100 companies. Slensky received his Juris Doctor cum laude from Temple University School of Law and his Bachelor of Science Degree from the University of Delaware.

Pappas focuses her practice on federal and state court environmental litigation and administrative agency appeals. She received her Juris Doctor from Villanova University School of Law, and her Bachelor of Arts degree, magna cum laude, in Biology from Colby College in Waterville, Maine.

*Celebrating its 20th year, MGKF concentrates its practice in environmental, energy, and land use law and litigation.
