MANKO, GOLD, KATCHER & FOX, LLP TO CONTRIBUTE MONTHLY “GREEN-HOUSE COUNSEL” COLUMN TO THE ASSOCIATION OF CORPORATE COUNSEL’S LEGAL RESOURCES

Philadelphia, PA (November 30, 2009) – Manko, Gold, Katcher & Fox, LLP (MGKF), an environmental, energy and land use law firm, is pleased to announce it will sponsor one of the Association of Corporate Counsel’s (ACC) legal resources, Green-house Counsel. In this role, the firm will contribute a monthly column focusing on the most salient developments in environmental, energy and land use law to enhance corporate counsels’ awareness of emerging issues in these areas.

“As we celebrate our 20th year of service, we look forward to working with The Association of Corporate Counsel and are pleased that our years of experience in environmental law will give us the opportunity to provide the insight we have gained over these past two decades,” said Managing Partner Robert D. Fox. ACC Deputy General Counsel & VP of Legal Resources James Merklinger shares his enthusiasm about working with MGKF. He said, “ACC members in the U.S. and abroad continue to look to us for the latest information on environmental law. Manko, Gold, Katcher & Fox’s monthly contributions will give our members access to environmentally friendly and cost-effective resources that impact their law departments.”

The inaugural column, “Don’t Dig a Watery Grave: Stay Current on the Latest Water Regulations and Available Funding,” advises that counsel should be aware of the evolution of governmental regulation of the use and handling of water, as well as monetary incentives to achieve compliance with the emerging laws. Future topic areas will include green lending, sustainability, green energy and outsourcing, environmental justice, litigation, and environmental reporting and permitting.
