John Gullace of Manko, Gold, Katcher & Fox, LLP Speaks at Chicago-Kent College of Law on:

“Sustainability: How Values-Driven Law Firms are Surviving Tough Times and Prospering over the Long Term”

Chicago, Illinois -- November 3, 2010

Philadelphia, PA (October 21, 2010) – John F. Gullace, a partner at MGKF, will be joining a group of panelists presenting at The American Bar Association’s Section of Environment, Energy, and Resources (ABA SEER) teleconference on Wednesday, November 3 from 2 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. EST at the Chicago-Kent College of Law. Two separate panels will be presenting; the first panel comprised of ABA staffers will be speaking about how their Sections can aid firms who want to pursue values-driven approaches and the second panel includes practitioners from law firms who have subscribed to the ABA SEER model sustainability framework for law firms. An expert overview on sustainability and keynote speech on advanced sustainability practices will complement the two panels.

Building on an article entitled “Sustainability: How Values-Driven Law Firms are Surviving Tough Times and Prospering over the Long Term,” which appears in the ABA publication Law Practice Today, the teleconference will detail how the values-driven management, focused on social, economic, and environmental responsibility aspects of sustainability, is helping firms prosper over the long term.

The Chicago-Kent College of Law is located at 565 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Illinois 60661. Early registration is strongly recommended and the cost to attend is $80 for Section Members as well as Government, Academic, or Public Interest; $100 for other ABA Members, and $110 for General Admission.
