Brett Slensky,
Attorney of Manko, Gold, Katcher & Fox,
Goes “Back to School”
Guest Speaker at Wissahickon Charter School
About Environmental Law

Philadelphia, Pa (July 6, 2010) – Recently, Wissahickon Charter School invited Brett Slensky, an attorney of Manko, Gold, Katcher & Fox, LLP (MGKF), the environmental, energy and land use law firm based in Bala Cynwyd, PA, to speak to 5th grade students about environmental law. The class had been studying pollution issues associated with the Chesapeake Bay and other environmental topics. Throughout their studies, the class had questions about environmental laws, how they are enforced, and penalties for breaking the laws. Teacher Tracy DelVecchio asked Slensky to share his knowledge, talk about some interesting cases, and to discuss with the class how one becomes an attorney.

Slensky discussed several environmental laws with the students, including the federal Clean Air Act, Clean Water Act and Endangered Species Act, as well as some current environmental issues. “It was wonderful to be invited to Wissahickon Charter to teach the class about environmental law,” Slensky said. “The students were very interested and even stayed after the bell rang to continue asking questions!”

At MGKF, Slensky focuses his practice on environmental aspects of commercial transactions, property development, regulatory compliance and renewable energy matters. He has represented a broad array of clients including individual property owners, real estate developers, municipalities and Fortune 100 companies. Slensky received his Juris Doctor cum laude from Temple University School of Law and his Bachelor of Science Degree from the University of Delaware.
