Philadelphia, PA (November 19, 2020) – Manko, Gold, Katcher & Fox partners Todd D. Kantorczyk and Katherine L. Vaccaro presented on "Legal Perspective on Oil and Gas Air Quality and Compliance Developments". Their program was part of the Marcellus Shale Coalition's Virtual Air Quality Compliance Reporting and Testing Training held virtually late last month.

Requirements for natural gas air quality compliance, reporting and testing have significantly changed over the past few years. Kantorczyk and Vaccaro provided a detailed overview of legal developments related to air quality compliance under evolving state and federal programs, and issues concerning self-audits and disclosures.

Vaccaro, co-leader of MGKF's air practice group, has spent more than 15 years focused on regulatory and other matters related to air quality for petroleum refineries, power plants, and chemical manufacturers, as well as commercial and development entities. She has extensive experience in counseling clients on compliance issues under federal and state air pollution control regulations, including virtually all aspects of the Title V permitting program. Vaccaro has spent considerable time negotiating agency enforcement actions alleging violations of regulatory requirements, including on behalf of several complex industrial facilities. She has also handled litigation matters, with a particular focus on defending environmental permits against third-party appeals and other administrative challenges.

Todd Kantorczyk has extensive experience advising clients on complex issues related to regulatory compliance, litigation, and transactional matters, particularly in the areas of chemical regulation, air, climate change, and energy. His practice includes matters related to chemical regulation under the Toxic Substances Control Act, as well as natural gas production in the Marcellus Shale Region and associated infrastructure development, including cutting-edge issues affecting the regulation of upstream and midstream natural gas operations under federal and state air quality and water resource programs. Kantorczyk serves as the firm's liaison to the Marcellus Shale Coalition and is an active participant in that group's Air Quality subcommittee.
